Units 15–16 [Track 9]

A Listen to the conversations. Check the correct answers.

1.

ALBERTO: Hey, Brenda, did you hear about that accountant who won the lottery?

BRENDA: Yes, I still can't believe she's going to keep working.

ALBERTO: Why not? She loves her job! What's wrong with that?

BRENDA: Well, if I won that much money, I'd quit my job immediately.

ALBERTO: That's because you don't like your job. If you had a job that you really liked, you might not want to give it up.

BRENDA: Maybe. But even if you like your job, there are so many other things to do in life.

2.

GINA: Do you watch that TV game show, Jim? The one where the winner has to choose between two prizes?

JIM: I watch it sometimes. Why?

GINA: Well, I couldn't believe what last night's winner did. He must have been crazy!

JIM: Why? What were his choices?

GINA: A three-month cruise around the world or a new car. I know which I'd choose!

JIM: I'd take the car. You wouldn't believe the repair bills I have on my old car! Besides, I wouldn't be able to take three months off work. So, which did the winner choose, the car or the trip?

GINA: Like you, he chose the car.

3.

THEO: How are you enjoying working at that new restaurant?

MAGGIE: I love it, Theo! The food's great, so it's crowded every night.

THEO: But what's the money like?

MAGGIE: Oh, it's much better than my last job. The customers are so happy with the food that the tips are pretty good!

Sometimes the tips are too good!

THEO: Huh? What do you mean?

MAGGIE: Well, like last night I served a group of foreigners. It must have been their first meal in this country. Anyway, they gave me a huge tip. I think they got confused with the currency.

THEO: So, what did you do?

MAGGIE: I told them the tip was too big, and I gave the money back to them. What would you have done?

THEO: I would have kept the money.

4.

HENRY: What's wrong, Liza? You look upset

LIZA: Actually, I am. I did something wrong, but I still don't know what I should have done.

HENRY: What happened?

LIZA: Well, my English teacher has a rule about cell phones. At the beginning of class, she always reminds us to switch them off.

HENRY: I don't blame her. Cell phones shouldn't be allowed in classrooms.

LIZA: Well, I agree, Henry, but I was waiting for an important call from my parents. My grandmother is in the hospital. So I didn't switch off my cell.

HENRY: Don't tell me! It rang in class!

LIZA: Yeah, right during our final quiz.

HENRY: What did she do?

LIZA: She asked me to leave the room. I feel terrible. What should I have done?

HENRY: I think you probably should have explained your predicament before the quiz.
