Units 15–16 [Track 9]

A Listen to the conversations. Check the correct answers.

1.

DIANA: Hey, Ray. That was quite a party last night!

RAY: Yeah, it was fun! I'm still cleaning up, though.

DIANA: What are you doing with all the bottles and cans?

RAY: I'll take the cans to the recycling center and throw away the bottles.

DIANA: Oh, no! You should take the bottles, too.

RAY: Nah, I don't get any money for recycling glass.

DIANA: No, but I think everyone should be required to recycle glass anyway. It's a waste to throw it away!

RAY: Yeah, but recycling centers should be required to pay people who return cans and bottles. Then they won't throw them away!

2.

YOSHI: Hey, Danielle, I saw you biking to work yesterday.

DANIELLE: Oh, yeah, when my car died, I decided to buy a bike. I figured I could do something about the traffic downtown and get some exercise at the same time.

YOSHI: But there are very few bike lanes, aren't there? And in any case, cars use them!

DANIELLE: I know. Drivers who do that should be fined. A hundred dollars at least! It's so dangerous!

YOSHI: Cyclists don't always behave so well, either. I've seen them ride side by side and not allow cars to pass.

DANIELLE: Yeah, and I've seen cyclists without helmets, too.

YOSHI: Yeah, cyclists should be required to wear helmets, and if they don't, they should be fined a hundred dollars!

3.

MACY: Hey, Ryan, I didn't realize you wrote music.

RYAN: Yeah, and I really enjoy performing it with other musicians. For me, my greatest accomplishment is hearing other people play my songs.

MACY: That's exciting! But what's the most challenging thing about writing music? Do you ever run out of ideas?

RYAN: No, never! I haven't managed to publish my music yet though. Getting attention from music publishers is my biggest challenge. That's one reason I perform a lot.

MACY: Oh, it sounds frustrating!

RYAN: It can be. I have been able to make some money from writing music but I can't make a living from it yet.

MACY: It sounds like you've accomplished a lot already.

4.

BRIAN: Hey, aren't you a police officer?

SABRINA: Well, I was, but I just quit. Do I know you?

BRIAN: I know you, but you don't know me! I'm Brian. You were working one night when I had a car accident. You were great . . . so helpful!

SABRINA: Thanks! I'm happy to hear that as a police officer, I've managed to help people when they need it most.

BRIAN: So, why did you quit?

SABRINA: Well, I was getting really tired. But the main reason is that my husband and I plan to move to a warmer area.

BRIAN: Oh, fantastic!

SABRINA: And after we move, I'd like to go back to school part-time, maybe start a new career eventually.

BRIAN: That's great. Good luck!
