A Listen to the conversations. Check the correct answers.

1.

MOLLY: Have you ever thought about living abroad, Kurt?

KURT: Yeah, sure. I've lived in this town all my life.

MOLLY: But that's what makes it so hard! My family and all my friends live here.

KURT: Yeah, leaving family and friends is something I'd feel pretty anxious about.

MOLLY: But there's so much to see! I'd really like to go to Brazil.

KURT: Me, too. But one thing I'd be worried about is getting used to a different culture and making friends.

MOLLY: Oh, you can meet friendly people everywhere.

KURT: You're right. To be honest, I'd love to travel to Europe and ski the Alps in France and Italy.

MOLLY: Sounds fascinating! Can I come?

2.

KRISTY: When I was visiting my grandfather last week, he told me about how he met my grandmother. Dating was pretty different back then.

JAMES: What do you mean, Kristy? What did he tell you?

KRISTY: Well, he was never alone with my grandmother until they got married. A family member was always present.

JAMES: Wow! I think that would be uncomfortable.

KRISTY: Well, my grandfather said one thing people don't realize is how secure this custom made everyone feel.

JAMES: How so?

KRISTY: Well, her family got to know him really well.

JAMES: Interesting. I never really thought about that.

3.

DOUG: I don't think this is the right café, Lena. It doesn't look very good.

LENA: I'm sure this is the one. I know it doesn't look great, but the menu looks interesting.

DOUG: But look! That waiter is wearing a horrible shirt.

LENA: Doug, maybe he likes bright colors!

DOUG: I don't mean the colors. There's a huge stain on it. And there's a hole in it.

LENA: Yeah, actually, I see what you mean.

DOUG: And look at this table! It's badly scratched. It looks like someone tried to write his name with a knife.

LENA: And my glass is chipped. I could cut myself!

DOUG: Let's get out of here.

4.

MR. TAYLOR: [phone rings] Hello?

WENDY: Hello, Mr. Taylor. This is Wendy, the new tenant in 2C. Um, the dishwasher makes a loud noise, and it keeps leaking all over the floor. And another thing, the whole apartment needs to be repainted.

MR. TAYLOR: I don't understand. You didn't point out any of this when you looked at the apartment last week.

WENDY: Well, I didn't notice the dishwasher then because I hadn't turned it on. But I thought you said you would paint the entire apartment before I moved in.

MR. TAYLOR: Yes, OK, I'll come over right now.
